You are at a local charity event with your family and have enjoyed an afternoon of food, music and dance. The event finishes at 4pm and the event organisers have asked you to stay behind to help with the cleaning.

Unfortunately, there is a football match in which your favourite team is playing and it starts in 5 minutes. You really don't want to miss the match.

What should you do - ignore the request to help or stay and help your family and friends to clean up?

Think points!

Can you spare some time to help others?

Is it really that important to watch the match on this occasion?

Discuss with your group.
